DIRECTOR

Markus Bader, born in 1972, lives in Frankfurt am Main. Already at school he made his first short films, but at that time still in front of the camera. He continued to work with the medium during his studies of architecture. He animates stop-trick films and develops video installations.

This is followed by an internship in a film production followed by freelance work as producer, cameraman, editor and 1st AD.

Since 2001 Markus works as a freelance director and video artist. This combination makes him a refreshing and creative commercial and music video director.

Among his customers are: Coca Cola, Honda, McDonalds, Vodafone, VW, Burger King, Absolut Wodka, Porsche, Easy Credit, Crunch Chips, Samsung, BMW and much more...

In addition to his experimental side, he succeeds in staging his actors in an extremely authentic and sensitive way. Markus doesn't repeat any clichés, but skilfully captures real life with his sensitively observing camera.

His humorous and friendly manner as well as his meticulous attention to detail help him here.

His music video "Link up" for the Phoneheads was nominated for the best German music video in Oberhausen. In addition, his short film "Wegen Krankheit geschlossen" won the audience award at the Berlin 36 Festival.

Besides his mother tongue German, he also speaks fluent English.
