

Edouard Valette
DIRECTOR

Born and raised in Spain, with a French father and a Belgian mother, Edouard has lived in a dozen different countries including the USA, Mexico, Spain and France, finally settling in Belgium in 1999.

Edouard graduated as a DOP from Film School in Belgium and started working behind the camera in documentaries, specializing in conflict zones around the globe.

In 2013 he moved into directing, working both in Belgium and abroad. Blurring the lines between narrative and documentary style, Edouard's work is visually dazzling from frame one.

He is always on the lookout to explore new techniques and push the style of his work, to create a dynamic and filmic cutting edge genre, while still managing to maintain a deep and intimate connection with the cast.
