BIOGRAPHY

While I always knew I wanted to work in film, I didn't always know I wanted to be a director of photography. My initial aim was to be a writer/director and I finished my Masters in Feature Film Screenwriting with that in mind, I started shooting whatever came my way and over the years, I worked my way up in music videos, commercials, short form documentaries and social 'content' as a director whilst acting as DOP for friends and colleagues on an adhoc basis without it being my primary pursuit. That all changed 4 years ago and it is now solely cinematography where I see my future and find fulfillment. I love the balance of technical and creative it allows me and working with light and lensing to convey the director's vision and emotion of the scene. Since this transition, I've been pursuing projects and people who interest and inspire me to help tell their stories, honing my craft and enjoying this beautiful ride I'm on. Within fiction I have picked up numerous awards for cinematography at film festivals. Over the years, I have been delighted to see the projects that I've worked on television screens and theatres. I will continue to learn and develop as a storyteller and collaborator, helping directors and productions bring their visions to life.
